

Coffee Time Talks on Chinese Thought

Reviving Family Rituals:
The Logic of Contemporary Confucian Rites in Urban China

Professor Anna Sun

Associate Professor of Religious Studies, Duke University

Monday November 8, 2021

10:00-11:30am CST on Zoom

Zoom ID: 984 9500 6071

<https://slu.zoom.us/j/98495006071>

Professor Anna Sun is Associate Professor of Religious Studies and Sociology at Duke University. A scholar of Confucianism in particular and of contemporary Chinese religious life in general, her research interests include the 19th century production of knowledge about Chinese religions; the development of Global Confucianisms in the 21st century; and theoretical and methodological issues underlying the social scientific study of religion.

Sponsored by the Center for Asian Studies, Department of Theological Studies, & the Department of Philosophy at Saint Louis University. Questions, email pauline.lee@slu.edu